

Double Gang. More Ports.

The Integrity™ II faceplate brought you connector protection, shatter resistance, and a sleek look in a residential faceplate. The Integrity™ II's 90° downward angle connector deployment, high-quality thermoplastic, modular inserts and low profile delivered what you needed: premise connection protection against furniture snags and plate breakage in high-churn and high-traffic areas. It provided increased service delivery quality and lower service call rates all from a single-gang plate bringing two-port and pass-through applications to the home.

But you want more: more ports, more space, more Integrity™.

The Integrity™ Wide takes the Integrity™ II concepts and brings them to the double-gang faceplate. New connector options support TIA/EIA 570B.1 Grade II specifications (two coax ports, two Category 5e drops), triple play solutions, and an expanded CablePass™ for even larger bulk cabling applications (up to 24 Category 5e cables). It also employs the same smooth, shatter-resistant, high-impact thermoplastic face to protect the installation from collateral damage.

Available in four configurations, the Integrity™ Wide faceplates bring a high-capacity solution to the Integrity™ family for larger applications.
